Founded in 1988, The Parkinson's Institute and Clinical Center is America's only independent non-profit organization that provides basic and clinical research, clinical trials and a comprehensive movement disorder patient clinic for Parkinson's disease and related neurological movement disorders, all under one roof. Our mission is to find the causes, provide first class patient care and discover a cure. Our unique, freestanding organization supports a strong collaboration of translational medicine designed to more directly connect research to patient care—from the bench to bedside.
